We invite all female researchers of the Department of Physics to meet and discuss in an informal atmosphere with Prof. Dr. Tanja Schilling from the University of Freiburg within our female role model series. Talk about her career path, important milestones or personal questions across disciplines and hierarchies. In a group of only female researchers, you will also have the opportunity to talk about the special circumstances of the career path for women in science and corporate world.

We encourage you to come and chat informally over coffee and cookies and expand your female research network!
